ASA Midwest
Monthly Mtg

The constant need for safety in relation to the construction industry can be exhausting at times. Often companies will relax on their efforts and incur risk they need not. Accidents are costly on many levels and being diligent concerning safety is never ending. Lapses result in greater price increases, expensive PR needs, and worst of all, employee hours lost. Owners and GCs look for contractors they can rely on for good safety performance on projects. It only takes a single event to eclipse the good feel of a low price. Is it worth the risk?

ASFII takes pride in our safety record. We have once again won the ASA Midwest Council's Safety Award for 2010! Our 7th win! Thanks to all our customers and employees for making this year another success.

Few events have the prestige of the ASA Midwest Council's Annual Awards Gala in the St. Louis area construction industry. This year was no exception. Congratulations to the GC winners; Landco, Kozeny Wagner, and Alberici Constructors. All the nominees were very deserving. The challenge is on for 2011!.

Steel Watch

Scrap prices remained steady in April and Steel Mills did the same. Steel prices saw no increase. The current escalation in crude oil prices combined with the earthquake and tsunami in Japan will have an impact on prices in the very near future. As always, we will keep you updated.
